Cullman-Heyman Tennis Center at Yale University

New Haven, Conn.

This upgrade added four more courts to the Yale University indoor facility in a unique design that fit on a tight, sloping site. A wedge-shaped central viewing lobby, washed in daylight, connects the new court building to the old, and the staff desk has views of the entryway and all the courts. The lobby, which is open directly to the courts, is one story above, allowing seating close to the action, yet the unique acoustical treatment contains audience noise.
